TANLAC'S HISORY IS REAL ROMANCE

Premier Preparation Reaches Stage of Popularity Unprecedented.

Louisville Kentucky, May 18, 1915-The growth and development of Tanlac, the new remedy being introduced in Kentucky, is a romance of the business world. The amazing popularity which this remedy has achieved within a short time is almost incredible to those not actually familiar with the figures.

More than 150,000 Kentuckians are now taking Tanlac, although it was only introduced in Lexington last October and here in January. So great are the demands for it that the laboratories at Dayton O., where the remedy is prepared, must be enlarged.

These laboratories are now cabable of turning out 8,000 bottles of Tanlac daily under normal conditions, 10,000 under the highest pressure consistent with the great care used in the medicine's preparation. To meet the unexpectedly large sales, it will be necessary to enlarge the plant and to increase the working

L. T. Cooper, the noted expert on hygiene and hardly less philanthropist, known here as "The Tanlac Man," was himself surprised at the tremendous popularity his remedy won in Kentucky. he said recently, and the more gratified as it because he is himself a native Kentuckian. The medicine is being sold now in all parts of the State. Mr. Cooper expected large sales, on account of the record the medicine established in East, but he was unprepared for the big success here.

The ingredients of Tanlac are gathered from all parts of the world. One of them, a discovery by Mr, Cooper's uncle on his island in the Pacific, has never before been used in a medicinal preparation. They are taken to the laboratortle shall be uniform.

Germany, It is Thought, Will Abandon Submarine Attacks on Shipping Only If England Will Abandon Its Policy of "Starvation."

Washington, May 17.-If Berlin accepts the views held by influential Germans in this country it is certain that the German government's reply to President Wilson's note about the submarine operations will be conciliatory and persuasive in tone, and will contain several suggestions calculated from the German point of view to avert all danger of a break between the imperial government and the United States.

Germans here refuse to see in the president's note any castigation of the German government at which they should take offense, and are devoting themselves entirely to formulating such arguments as can be brought to bear in support of the German submarine operations, which resulted in the Lusitania disaster, in a way which they hope likely to appeal to the American public mind. That is, they are refusing to indulge themselves in the temptation to get angry about the matter, and instead are endeavoring to present ways in which they hope it can be smoothed

The views held in Berlin regarding the United States's position on the submarine operations are not definitely known here, but certainly the most If you have anything to sell or trade; interesting phase of the situation as tes in Dayton, and there compounded want to buy anything, have rooms to it exists in Washington is the effort with scrupulous care, so that every bot rent or desire to find rooms, or in fact if being made in German quarters to Requests United States to Use you have anything in mind that you bring about an entirely amicable ad-

He indicated that Dr. Dernburg would like to have the United States government use its good offices to secure for him a safe conduct for the sea voyage, from the British embassy. The supposition seems to have been that the state department would be willing enough to do anything in its power to speed the German unofficial spokesman on his way. The state department, however, has not shown any alacrity about taking steps to secure for Dr. Dernburg a British safe conduct. The department takes the view that as Dr. Dernburg has never acknowledged having any official connection with the German government, he is not entitled to claim any special consideration at the hands of the British government, nor from the United States government either for that matter. Consequently the state department does not intend to expose itself to any embarrassment by asking for favors for Dr. Dernburg which the British may not feel like granting.

Rumor of Mysterious Witness Report the Capture of German In Case.

Not Be Satisfied If Jury Disagrees In Noted Libel Suit-Wants Satis-

se, N. Y., May 17.-Mr. rnes, it is now stated, inbring a fresh suit against Colonel Roosevelt if the jury in the case now being tried disagrees. He will not be satisfied to let the issue between him and Colonel Roosevelt drop to earth.

Colonel Roosevelt has returned from New York, as has also Mr. Barnes. His ordeal of cross-examination will be finished today, and the case will be practically at an end, except for the fight over Loeb's testimony, the calling of many legislators to testify about matters already covered, the summing up, and the

No matter how expensive the proeeding may be (and it is estimated that the case in the first hearing will have cost both Mr. Barnes and Colonel Roosevelt about $30,000), Mr. Barnes intends to continue the fight. The colonel's probable attitude has not been so clearly indicated. It can be said, however, that in the event of Mr. Barnes receiving a substantial award from the jury, the colonel will appeal. A small verdict, an award of a few cents, or even of a few hundred dollars for Mr. Barnes, would be considered a victory for the defendant, as, of course, a disagreement

The final drive of counsel for Mr Barnes will be directed against William Loeb, the long-time confidential secretary, and corroborator of Mr. Roosevelt. Their last effort will be to discredit Mr. Loeb's testimony that Mr. Barnes admitted in the spring of 1911 having an arrangement with Charles F. Murphy, by which he was to control the election of a United States senator.

It is not impossible that the determination of the case will swing upon the credibility of Mr. Loeb. Positively backing up the colonel, he has tes tified that he had it from Barnes himself that an improper and secret un derstanding obtained between Barnes and Murphy by which the Republican organization was to keep out of the senatorial fight, and because of which, an independent Democrat could not be used to defeat Murphy's candidate. Since the main point of justification evidence left in the suit has to do with Barnes's attitude in the 1911 senatorial fight, the credibility of Mr Loeb becomes the big issue.

A very suave and extremely capable centleman numbered among Barnes's advisers, was asked what would be done to impeach Mr. Loeb's veracity. The man in question, whose name it is at all unnecessary to mention, held up his hands and slowly brought them tightly together. The gesture was infinitely expressive. Mr. Barnes will try to flatten Mr. Loeb. Only a hint is given as to what means will be used. The hint is, merely, that a witness will be produced who will testify that Mr. Loeb admitted to her or him that the conversation be had with Mr. Barnes at the office of J. S. Bache & Co., took place in 1913, two years after the senatorial fight, and that the matter of an agreement between Barnes and Murphy was never men tioned in the conversation. It is sug gested that the Barnes's counsel have a sensation to explode, one they de pend on to wreck Loeb's testimony.

Colonel Roosevelt's lawyers appear not to be alarmed over the outlook They point to the fact that Colones oosevelt has testified that Loeb told about the conversation with Barnes in 1912, and that it is imposble therefore that Barnes and Loeb could have been talking in 1913 about the very matter referred to by Colonel Roosevelt.

At any rate a hot fight will be made over the veracity of Loeb, who has been sent for to repeat his story. Colonel Roosevelt will take the stand to repeat his recollection of what Loeb told him. 'The mysterious witness for the Barnes side will then be > Neuve Chapelle. An officia: statement given out by the war office contains a dispatch from General French telling of this new offensive-and its entire success is in the preliminary

The German front has been shattered along the greater part of a twomile line between Richebourg L'Avoue and Festubert by a combined artillery and infantry assault of the British first army. Two attacks were made, one southward from Richebourg L'Avoue, and the other due east and just to the north of Festubert. In the former two successive attacks German breastworks were carried on a reach of eight hundred yards, and in the latter 1,200 yards of trenches were taken first, then the gain was extended 600 yards to the south, and the British troops dashed irresistibly forward for a full mile. The fighting began when a strong force moved out from Richebourg L'Avoue and fell upon the Germans unexpectedly, splendidly supported by the artillery. This action was successful and while the attention of the Germans still was engaged in that region, another detachment was sent against the position to the south. The engagement still is under way and the British hold the upper hand, according to General French, who telegraphed as follows: "Our first army made a successful attack between Richebourg L'Avoue and Festubert, breaking the line over the greater part of a two-mile front. The attack commenced at midnight south of Richsbourg L'Avoue, where they carried two successive lines of German breastworks on a front of "A mile further south we made another attack at dawn and carried 1.200 vards of the German front line trenches. Thence we pushed on of the club will be required to have rapidly, extending our success six hundred vards further south by bomb throwing operations. "Here we crossed the Festubert

Ouinque road and advanced nearly a mile into the German line. The fighting continues in our favor. "Throughout me day our brave troops fought splendidly. At Ypres all has been quiet for the past fortyeight hours. Elsewhere on the front there is nothing to report." The official communique issued by the French war office and telegraphed here dwells at some length on the successful and heroic advance of the British troops. It also couples up this particular achievement with the allied progress in the section north of Arras which continues unabated. The necessity of straightening out the allied lines north of Arras has resulted in some remarkable work by both French and British soldiers, The French war office states that the Germans have now been driven from the few remaining salients where they retained a foothold, and that the forward movement from Lorette is being carried out successfully.

Berlin, via wireless to London, May 17.-The following official report was given out by the general staff: In the western theater a strong force of the enemy's troops has been attacking north of Ypres, our positions, east of the canal, at Steenstraate and Het Sas without regard to its own losses. All attacks have been repulsed, but the battle of Steenstraate continues.
